

Floating an idea

If there's one thing that you could vouch for in life, that's change. Be it our display pictures on social media, our wardrobe or even our living space. The Floating Canvas Company, India's first art-on-subscription service, will ensure your walls don't carry the same tired painting for long. Their wide range of artists and art include Sajid Wajid Sheikh and his geometric take on the Mahatma (in pic) and minimalist Pravin Yarramilli's views from a train window. Subscriptions begin at as low as ₹90 for a month and can change based on what you'd like to have. So art-lovers, what are you waiting for?
